5) Issuer's Business, Products and Services

The purpose of this section is to provide a clear description of the issuer's current operations. In answering this item, please include the following:

A. Summarize the issuer's business operations (If the issuer does not have current operations, state "no operations")

⁴ The financial statements requested pursuant to this item must be prepared in accordance with US GAAP or IFRS by persons with sufficient financial skills.

Beneficial Holdings, Inc., a Nevada Corporation, (the "Company") was incorporated on December 20, 1990. Since its formation, the Company has been engaged in several lines of business.

The Company operates businesses which provide solutions and technology the built environment. As such it competes in the real estate services sector, the infrastructure sector and the clean energy sector.

The Company's common stock is quoted on the OTC Pink Market under the symbol "BFHJ."

The Company has been engaged in the business of providing services to the Built Environment since March, 2012.

The Company carries out its activities through its wholly-owned subsidiaries and various joint ventures. The Company's principle subsidiaries and joint ventures and their activities are as follows:

BFHJ Project Solutions, LLC ("Project Solutions") engages in real estate management and development. Project Solutions is currently developing a multifamily project in joint venture with a local land owner in New Jersey. In the past the Project Solutions had managed a portfolio of multifamily and retail properties.

Genco International Technologies, LLC ("Genco") made s $125,000 loan to an LED lighting technology company. The principal of the LED Company defaulted on the Note and several other agreements associated with the transaction. The Company has been successful in obtaining a judgement against LED Company, its subsidiaries and affiliates, as well as the principal of the LED Company. The balance of the Note, along with accrued interest and penalties is $579,354 and $504,075 at June 30, 2023 and December 31, 2022, respectively. Genco is vigorously pursuing collection.

BFHJ Energy Solutions, LLC ("BES") is engaged in providing and operating energy conservation measures for commercial properties. BES has interests in solar streetlight technology (developed with a Malaysian technology company) and building sensor technology (developed with a Taiwanese technology company). BES also has developed a sensor based building monitoring system "the Virtual Property ManagerSM" for application in the United States commercial property market. Working prototypes of the sensors were produced as well as monitoring protocols. BES retains rights to the technology and the service mark.

BFHJ Clean Energy LLC ("Clean Energy") is engaged in the development of solar energy, battery storage and waste to energy projects. Clean Energy has developed several small scale (1MW or less) solar projects in joint venture with local developers and a Taiwanese solar panel manufacturer. Clean Energy has retained rights to develop 11 small scale solar projects in the Southeast and New England. Clean Energy has received approval from a large global renewable fund to proceed with the acquisition and development of an EV charging station site in New Jersey. The Company has negotiated the land acquisition and is awaiting direction from our partner as to how to proceed.

Beneficial Power, LLC ("BP") is engaged in larger, utility scale solar power and battery storage projects through joint ventures with institutional investors and global energy companies. Joint ventures include:

- Acquiring and repowering older operating solar projects with a publically held domestic clean energy investor ("Repowering JV").
- Developing and operating utility scale solar and battery projects in Virginia and Puerto Rico with a consortium of Korean companies that include a large scale regional utility, a global EPC and operations contractor and several power engineering companies ("Korean JV").

BP's Repowering JV has made several proposals to acquire existing projects, however, no transactions have closed to date.

BP's Korean JV is developing 20MW of utility scale and community solar projects in Virginia with a local landowner. The Virginia projects have received all local approvals and one of two utility interconnection approvals. The Virginia projects are under letter of intent to be sold to a large global renewable investor.

BP's Korean JV, along with a local renewable project developer, is developing 100MW of utility scale solar and 800MWH of battery storage projects on two separate sites in Puerto Rico. These projects are nearing final approvals in order to commence development in the 1st quarter of 2024. A proprietary supply of solar pv panels and storage batteries that will qualify for the "domestic content" requirements of the Inflation Reduction have been sourced for this project, enabling them to generate a 40% Investment Tax Credit. Financing for these projects is expected to be provided through one or more US Government programs as well as the sale of Investment Tax Credits.

BP's Korean venture with the local developer has submitted 32 additional projects totaling 1.6GW of solar power and 4.8GWH of battery storage (the "Pipeline Projects"). None of Pipeline Projects has received designation by the utility. All projects in Puerto Rico will be developed subject to long term contracts with the utility. It should be noted that the utility is in bankruptcy and obtaining institutional debt and tax equity investment for these projects is difficult at this time.

BP's Korean venture with a local developer in Nevada had previously sought local and utility approvals for a 20MW solar project that was to be sold to a global renewable energy company. This project did not obtain approvals and the local county government has enacted legislation that renders all such projects unfeasible in the current term. As a result, BP has ceased operations in Nevada. No costs were incurred on this project by BP.

BFHJ Resource Solutions, LLC ("Resource Solutions") has developed a process to use recycled plastics and ground up windmill blades to create a reinforced plastic building material. As of the date of this report, initial test production has confirmed the viability of the process and the efficacy of the product. The process was funded by a global wind power equipment manufacturer seeking a green method to dispose of retired windmill blades. Resource Solutions has secured a manufacturing facility for initial production and is negotiating a forward sale contract of the finished product to a national logistics company. We expect this contract to be finalized upon successful testing of the product by an independent laboratory. At this time, there is no assurance that a transaction will be consummated.

Additional descriptions of the Company's business efforts are found at the Company's website <http://beneficial-holdings.net/>
